BERNSTORFF AND VON PAPEN ARE IMPLICATED IN AN IRISH PLOT

German Submarine Foiled in Attempt to Land Munitions in Ireland for Proposed Irish Revolt Planned to Take Place Simultaneously With Big Hun Drive.

LONDON, MAY 25.—Count Von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States and Captain Von Papen, arch German plotter in America were involved in the conspiracy to start a revolution in Ireland, in which German troops were to participate, it is officially known today as the result of the issuance of a statement on the Sinn Fein situation by the government.

This month a German submarine cruised off the west coast of Ireland ready to unload munitions for a new revolution, it was revealed. It was planned that the German-Irish plot was to come to a head at the same time as the launching of the offensive on the western front which would be draining England of her armed forces.

The arrest of a man who had been landed on the Irish coast from a German submarine and the arrest of the Sinn Fein leaders nipped the conspiracy in the bud.

Fomenters of the contemplated uprising were an Irish committee and an "Irish revolution director in America" whose identity has not been revealed. John Devoy, operator of a successful ~~Irish-American~~ line of communication, is involved as well as the Rev. Father John T. Nicholson, an American citizen of Irish birth, Von Papen and Bernstorff. Bernstorff, it was learned, started reorganizing an Irish rebellion shortly after the Dublin uprising two years ago.

Thus it is seen that negotiations between the Sinn Feiners and Germany were virtually continuous for three and a half years, says the statement. At first the second rebellion was planned for last year, but the plan broke down as Germany was unable to send troops.

The plans for this year was to bring about an uprising in conjunction with the German offensive on the western front and it was maturing. A shipment of arms from Germany to Ireland was imminent. Under the circumstances there was no other course open to the government if useless bloodshed was to be avoided and our duty to our allies to be fulfilled, than to intern the authors and abettors of this intrigue.

In June, 1916, a message went from Berlin to Washington referring to 'A-259' saying that Germany was ready to give further help to Ireland if the Irish would only say what was required. On the sixteenth Bernstorff sent a message concerning the uprising, stating that a defense fund of 1,000 pounds had been formed for Sir Roger Casement.

Later Bernstorff sent a message stating that the reorganization of the Irish rebels was progressing and that the lack of money had been remedied by him.

Bernstorff sent a communication to Berlin enclosing memorandum from the "Irish revolution director resident in America" relating to details about a fresh uprising.

"The rising," said the American director, "is contingent upon the sending from Germany of sufficient military forces to cover a landing and

OFFICIALS HOPE DEATH LIST OF SUNKEN TRANSPORT MAY BE MATERIALLY REDUCED

Fifty Four Americans Reported Missing Following Sinking of British Transport Moldavia in the English Channel Early Thursday.

WASHINGTON, MAY 25.—Hope that the list of American dead on the torpedoed British troop ship Moldavia will not be as large as reported from London—fifty four soldiers—was felt at the war department today. A list of some of the missing American soldiers was received and officials, without revealing their reasons declared their belief that the first estimate of the lost was too large. The names of the missing will be made public as soon as verified.

WASHINGTON, MAY 25. The war department has asked the American commander in chief of the American forces in Great Britain to rush the identity of the American casualties of the torpedoed troop ship Moldavia. It is believed here, however, that two or three days must elapse before this can be done, as the survivors were landed at several points and the muster rolls of the organizations on board and the shipping list must be completely checked before it will be possible to accurately tabulate the casualties. Only a partial report has so far been received. It is assumed here that the 54 missing American soldiers were sleeping below deck and that they were caught in the compartment which the torpedo wrecked and probably were all killed instantly [illegible] from the exploding torpedo.

LONDON, MAY 25.—The armed British troop ship Moldavia which was sunk by a German submarine while carrying American troops remained afloat fifteen minutes after being struck by the torpedo.

Fifty four of the Americans are still missing including two corporals.

Captain Johnson, commander of the Moldavia in an interview given to the Daily Telegraph today praised the courage of the young American soldier

The wake of the torpedo was seen by a midshipman when it was about 50 yards away from the ship, said Captain Johnson. It struck the port side just forward of the engines. All of the soldiers were asleep at the time but there was splendid discipline among them when they were aroused. Fifty four men are missing, including two corporals. All the rest are [illegible]. It is believed that they were killed by the explosion.

The ship listed heavily to the port side, but righted herself and ran on for fifteen minutes before going down. In that time she made about five knots. The soldiers were taken off with but a single mishap. Half a dozen of them got a wetting when they slipped from a life raft. General Biddle at headquarters of the American forces congratulated the American officers and men upon their soldierly bearing during the ordeal.

The Moldavia was formerly owned by the Peninsular and Oriental line.

CUCKOO CLOCKS MADE BY HUNS UNPOPULAR HERE

Who wants a cuckoo clock? No one, probably, for they are "Made in Germany."

The three year old grandson of a patriotic Coshocton woman saw a cuckoo clock while out calling at a neighbor's with his mother. He was so fascinated by the manner in which the bird announced the hour of day, that the grandmother decided to buy him one.

She found that there was only one such clock on sale in Coshocton. As she was making her purchase, another customer in the store asked the merchant if he could get her one, as she had a little boy whom she thot would enjoy it.

"No," said the merchant," I don't think I can. You know cuckoo clocks are made in Germany."

"You can have this one," snapped the patriotic grandmother.

But the other woman didn't care for it either, since it came from Germany.

CUBA AND MEXICO ON THE VERGE OF DIPLOMATIC BREAK IS BELIEF IN U. S.

Pro-German Carranzista Government Declares Conditions in Cuba With Respect to Mexican Capital are Growing Intolerable.

WASHINGTON, MAY 25.—The relations between Cuba and Mexico today are very much strained. According to confidential advices reaching Washington today the Mexican minister to Cuba has been recalled. Whether this means that the diplomatic relations have been broken, or that they are to be, is not yet known.

At the state department it was admitted that information reaching there confirmed the report that Mexico had withdrawn her minister from Havana, but it was stated that there was no information available as to the reason. The matter was one on which the department had nothing to make public.

At the Cuban legation it was stated that there had been no official word received there as to the situation between the two countries.

Officials who have been following the situation explained that the Carranza government has complained that, as a result of Cuba entering the world war on the side of the United States, Mexican interests have been greatly hampered and interfered with. Commercial relations have been practically cut off and recently it is understood that the Mexican government served notice that the situation was becoming intolerable.

CAMPAIGN TO MAKE NATION DRY REARS HEAD IN OBERLIN, O.

National Anti-Saloon League Will Carry Fight Before Congress—Ohio First..

OBERLIN, O., May 25.—A campaign to make the nation "bone dry" by fall has been inaugurated by the executive committee by the National Anti-Saloon League, meeting here. The decision to carry the fight on a nation wide basis followed optimistic reports from dry leaders concerning the attitude of congressmen on the question, as evidenced by the house yesterday in voting to prohibit the president from using funds of the agricultural appropriation bill until after he issues a proclamation barring the use of foodstuffs in making beer.

Leaders of the national committee left at once, for Washington to carry the fight before congress. In the meantime efforts to make Ohio dry this fall will not be neglected and plans for a vigorous campaign are being formulated and put into execution

Mr. Williams will be greatly missed by his many friends here and by the high school pupils by whom he was much admired.

SOLDIERS LIKE CANDY TOO, SO PUT SOME IN

Candy was erroneously omitted from the list of good things that are to be put in the lunch boxes for the boys who leave Monday morning. There have been almost enough boxes volunteered and if there are ten more patriotic women who will fill boxes, they are requested to call Mrs. Hugh Hay, 16 Citizens phone.

The boxes are to contain four substantial sandwiches, two hard boiled eggs, cake or cookies, fruit and candy. The packages will be handed out to the boys as they board the train before leaving. The boxes are to be left at the home of Mrs. Hester Spangler, Chestnut and Fourth streets, Sunday evening.

ARE SECURING FIGURES FROM TAX DUPLICATE

Seven young ladies, under the direction of R. A. Crawford commenced work Saturday morning copying from the county records at the courthouse all the names of property owners in the county whose names appear on the tax duplicate, with the valuation of each person's property. This information is to be used in the back-checking system in connection with solicitation week for the War Chest to aid in determining whether each person gives his full share toward the war relief fund. The task is a burdensome one but will be accurately performed. This is only one of the methods to be used in figuring out each income earner's proportionate share for the War Chest.

NAVAL RESERVE OPEN TO DRAFT REGISTRANTS

Coshocton men between the ages of 18 and 35 including men of draft age who have not been called to service will be given an opportunity of enlisting in the Naval Reserve Force the last of June.

Men who enlist here will be given a preliminary examination, and will then be sent to Cleveland for the final examination. If successful in passing this, they will be sworn into service, and will then return home to await orders to report at a training camp.

HOUSEHOLDER HELPS PAY FOR ALL ICE USED

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., MAY 24—Representatives of the state and county food administrations of Ohio were told by ice company officials at their meeting here that the small consumers of ice, the householder, pays the profits and makes up the losses the ice companies suffer in delivering ice to large consumers. Figures presented showed that in Cleveland, a typical case, the private consumer used about 28 per cent of the ice sold and that this class of trade was assessed about $10 a ton to make up the loss on the other [illegible] per cent, which was sold at about [illegible] a ton. Steps will be taken, it is expected, to remedy the situation so that the large consumers will bear their fair share of the burden, thus reducing the ice bills for the small user by about one half.

Typhus Rages In Petrograd

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, WASH., MAY 24—Typhus is raging in Petrograd and thousands of the lower class of Russians are starving, according to G. W. Willis, an American business man who is here today, having just returned from the Russian capital, where he spent five years. He said the situation in Petrograd is such that the Germans would gain nothing by entering the city and probably do not want to take over the task of restoring order.

Willis said several times a week the red guards (Bolsheviki) enter the leading hotels and steal everything they want on the pretense of search for arms. He said the plan of the Bolsheviki for taking over privately owned plants and operating them on a co-operative basis has been a failure.

"Farmers are not planting crops," said Willis, "because they believe their lands are likely to be taken from them at any time."

Mr and Mrs Frank Welling and Miss Etta Welling, of West Carlisle, were in the city shopping Friday.

WHAT BASEBALL MAGNATES SAY ABOUT THE NEW DRAFT ORDER:

Ban Johnson: "The American league will offer no obstacles to the players donning khaki to beat the hun if it costs every player we have."

John K. Tener: "Everything must be done to win the war. If baseball is non-essential there is a possibility our parks will have to be closed."

Colonel Jacob Ruppert: "The war first; baseball last."

Colonel E. C. H. Ebbets: "Whatever action the government sees fit to take will be indorsed by the National League."

Harry N. Hempstead: "We will gladly adjust ourselves to any order the government may find it necessary to issue."

William F. Baker: "If our players are needed to perform important duties we will gladly give them up."

SPORTING WORLD IS HARD HIT BY DRAFT ORDER JUST ISSUED

NEW YORK, N. Y., MAY 24—The sporting world was slowly recovering today from the first shock of surprise caused by the sweeping effect of Provost Marshal General Crowder's latest draft amendment.

Like a bolt from a clear sky the news that all men of draft age must engage in useful work or fight after July 1, struck home and speculation is running rampant regarding what the outcome will be.

Leading men in all branches of sport admit that if the new order is enforced to the letter baseball will be put out of business until after the war. Along with baseball will go boxing, wrestling, golf, tennis, bowling, billiards and many other sports in which professionals indulge.

Academic, collegiate and amateur sports will not be hit and the sportsman above draft age may indulge in his favorite pastime as before. But the stars of the diamond, the ring, and in some cases, the turf, will go.

Racing, it is said, will escape a heavy toll because a big percentage of jockeys are under draft age, while most trainers well over it. Touts and race track followers, however, will have to put themselves to something more useful.

Baseball men in the big leagues are facing the new situation calmly. They stand ready to do whatever the government deems best and many owners apparently feel that the closing of parks until after the war might be a good thing. However, it is the belief in some quarters that organized leagues will be permitted to finish out their seasons without too great interference, far outside of the public's desire for the game, there are property rights vested in baseball which call for consideration.

Racing like baseball may continue thruout the present season without any great handicaps it is said.

PRESBYTERIANS PLEDGE UNSWERVING LOYALTY TO THE ALLIED CAUSE

COLUMBUS, O., MAY 25—"We do pledge, so far as in us lies, the American people to an ever increasing effort which shall be sustained, if need be until our sacrifices are equal to those of the allies and until a decisive victory is secured and a prematurely negotiated peace is made unnecessary and impossible."

This pledge was unanimously adopted at the closing session of the 130th general assembly of the Presbyterian church of America. A resolution offered by Prof. Chas. Scanlon, of Pittsburg, general secretary of the Temperance Board unanimously carried, urged all Presbyterians in Ohio to lend "undivided support to the Ohio dry federation and the organizations affiliated with it" in the effort to put Ohio in the dry column next November. This action which was seconded by Dr W. O. Thompson of Columbus, president of Ohio State University, nullified the resolution, submitted by Dr. Thompson adopted late yesterday pledging support to the Ohio Anti-Saloon league and affiliated organizations. It was explained that the Ohio dry federation is running the Ohio dry campaign and that it is made up of representatives of the anti-saloon league, various church organization and other temperance societies.

Closing hours of the assembly will [illegible] a revision of the constitution of the Presbyterian church so as to permit ruling elders as well as pastors to be moderators of the general assembly and to address the opening sessions. Heretofore, moderators have been limited to pastors.

Church attendance has not increased while the numbers attending Sunday School and Young People's meetings are becoming smaller, according to the report of the committee on Christian life and work. The committee was unable to get a line on the condition of church work because about 50 of the 292 Presbyteries in the country failed to supply it with [illegible]. It is estimated that there are 1,650,000 Presbyterians in America.

United States Senator Warren G Harding says: "I cordially approve of the Ohio Republican organization joining in making its various committees available to the service of the National War Savings Committee. W. S. S. CHAIRMEN CONFER

Discuss Plans For Success of Campaign In the State.

Columbus, O.—(Special)—War Savings Stamp chairmen and representatives from 24 Ohio counties were in Columbus this week to participate in a conference called for the purpose of arranging the midsummer campaign for the sale of War Savings Stamps. The counties represented were the so-called "small" counties.

Details of the plan that operated to put Ashland county in the "honor class"—outline of the plan which gave it the record of the first in the country to exceed its 1918 quota—were explained by T. W. Miller, War Savings chairman for that county. Other speakers at the conference were Charles R. Cary, Holmes county chairman, Xerxes Farrar, Madison county chairman, and Colonel John Y. Bassell, Assistant State War Savings Director.

First School Sammy Major.

Hamilton, O.—(Special)—To William Bensing, Jr., of Overpeck, Butler county, goes credit for gaining the title of "major" in the army of the School Sammies of Ohio. He has sold 524 War Savings Stamps since the first of May, representing a total of $2,620.

London, O.—(Special.)—Under direction of Xerxes Farrar, Madison county War Savings chairman, War Savings Stamp pledges taken in this county in one week amounted to more than $75,000. The canvass covered every section of the county.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS BEST INVESTMENT IN THE WORLD.

By Nicholas Murray Butler,
President of Columbia University.

I trust that every American rich or poor young or old, man or woman, who can possibly do so, will purchase, without delay, a War Savings Certificate, and affix to it as often as possible a $5 War Savings Stamp. Not all of us can bear arms or serve on ships. Not all of us can take posts of duty in the civil administration of the government. All of us, however, can do our part by exercising rigid economy and making [illegible] savings of at least $5 which we can in this way lend to the government.

A War Savings Stamp is the best investment in the world. It [illegible] as high a rate of interest as a first class savings bank can pay [illegible] money lent directly to the government to aid in winning the war for progress and democracy. [illegible] more urgent call could be made to our patriotism than this? [illegible] one of us who is receiving [illegible] or wages can do something or other through War Savings or Thrift Stamps. Let [illegible] hasten to get one [illegible] other, and buy them systematically.

Dear Mother:

Just finished reading your dear letter [illegible] glad to hear from you. Last week I received your box. It [illegible] great surprise and everything [illegible] in splendid condition [illegible] and I certainly enjoyed it.

[illegible] returned from guard [illegible] I [illegible] full as we were at our [illegible] guard house where all the ex-convicts and criminals are, but I got along nicely and was complimented by the lieutenant. I rested a little then took our gas examination. We had to pass this examination before we could be gas instructors in gas defense. I was one of the few who passed the examination. We have to have the mask on and be breathing in five seconds.

There was a sand storm here this morning. The table I am writing on is simply covered with sand. I am at the Y. M. C. A. The fellows are playing and singing "Over there." Several days ago we had a battalion parade and the band played such patriotic music I believe it would thrill most any one. When I stood there and saluted Old Glory I was glad I was in uniform and doing my bit. I am glad you are doing so much for the Red Cross. The Red Cross is doing a wonderful work, too much cannot be said for them and the Y. M. C. A.

Write often mother, as I am always glad to hear from home.

ITALIANS DOWN TEN TEUTONIC AIR RAIDERS

ROME, MAY 24—Ten more Austro-German airplanes have been brought down by the Italians either by airmen or by high angle guns, says an official announcement by the war office.

There has been considerable activity along the mountain front and the operations are developing in favor of the Italians, it was stated.

South of Val Assa (in the Sette Comuni, west of the Asiago plateau), a British patrol penetrated the enemy's lines capturing some prisoners.

North [illegible] of Monte Val Bella, Italian troops attacked and captured an Austro-German outpost. The Italians then pushed on into the village of Stoccaredo, inflicting losses upon the enemy garrison. An ammunition dump was blown up.

The artillery firing has been fairly intense all along the front, the report adds. East of Zenson loop the Italian fire against hostile batteries was particularly effective.

Today's War Situation

(By Frank Charlton.)

(International News Service)

The Germans have extended their gas shell bombardment north of Bethune until it now reaches as far as the Nieppe forest. The British hold strong positions in and about this wood and they proved impregnable when the Germans were trying to extend their Bailleul success by pushing along the railway line that passes thru Merris and Hazebrouck.

(Nieppe forest which lies on the southern end of the great Flanders' battle front borders the Lys river and is between seven and eight miles northwest of the important British rail head position at Bethune. Between Bethune and the forest are the battle scarred villages of Hinges, Robecq, and St. Venant.)

While the German infantry remains inactive in both the Picardy and Flanders' battle zones, the steadily growing intensity of the German artillery firing in the district north of Bethune and Lillers indicates that a new blow is impending against the British positions in that hilly stretch of country.

There are two area of high ground on the Flanders' front that proved severe obstacles to the Germans in the first phase of their death towards the channel ports. One lies on the Franco-Belgian frontier, southwest of Ypres; the other is in the Bethune sector flanking the D'Aire canal and the Loisne river.

To achieve a success the Germans will have to overcome Anglo French defenses in both zones and now that there are Americans on the northern battle field, the German chances of breaking thru have become more remote than ever before.

In addition to the heavy cannonading north of Bethune, the big guns are roaring along most of the other sectors of the two battle fields.

It has been nearly a month now since the big scale operations died down and excellent fighting weather has developed in the meanwhile, but still Von Hindenburg is holding off his field grey hordes.

While the Germans are continuing their methodical preparations the British and French forces thrust against various parts of the German lines with raiding groups of storming troops constantly improving their positions.

This was the sixty fifth day of the German drive.

GRACE LUSK BARES HER MOST INTIMATE SECRETS WITH ROBERTS ON TRIAL

(International News Service)

WAUKESHA, WIS., MAY 2—Grace Lusk, psychology teacher, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts, bared today the innermost secrets of her life with Dr. David Roberts, for whose love she slew Mrs. Roberts, and the strain is telling on the frail young woman. As her story, the story of her visits, trips, meetings, and rides with Dr. Roberts, drawn out slowly and steadily by her attorney, Clancy, was unwound, the telling of it grew harder at each episode, her voice faltering, and she spoke as if each word were an extreme effort. She jerked and shook her head as if to force herself to speak clearly.

As the story drew to its first climax, the time when Dr. Roberts and she kissed for the first time, the courtroom was tense. When Miss Lusk said, "he leaned over and kissed me," a woman fainted. They carried her to a window to be revived.

She said it was in March, 1915. "I was sitting at my desk and he was standing there. He leaned over and kissed me. I told him he shouldn't do that and then we kissed each other."

"It was in February of 1915 that the acquaintanceship grew into a decided friendship," said Miss Lusk.

"Was there any emphatic demonstration?" asked Clancy.

"Yes, he asked me if it were possible for two people to be just friends?"

"Did he say anything about his wife?"

"Yes, he mentioned her several times. He said they were not happy, that they had learned shortly after their marriage that they had little in common and that they were getting along as best they could under the circumstances."

"Did you go on trips with him?"

"Yes."

"Were his visits business visits?"

"No, not entirely."

Miss Lusk then related how she recalled to Dr. Roberts, after the first kiss, that he was married, and he again declared his wife did not care. She declared he had talked many times about his wife before he kissed her.

"You were not the first one to indulge in the kissing?" asked Clancy.

"No," Miss Lusk replied. She then led on in her story to where Dr. Roberts asked her to be his private secretary. She related automobile trips in the vicinity of Waukesha. On all these occasions she declared Dr. Roberts told her of the lack of feeling between his wife and him.

"Did you begin to love Dr. Roberts in January and February of 1915?" asked Clancy.

"I never thot of such a thing but I enjoyed being in his company," replied Miss Lusk.

"When did you begin to love him?"

"I found I cared very much for him in March."

"There were demonstrations and he told me he and his wife were not congenial and yet there was nothing that he could seek his freedom on. And then he asked me for my love and all that means."

The trail of testimony then led to the visit in April at the Grand Pacific Hotel in Chicago.

"He asked me to go there and take a room," said Miss Lusk. "He said he had some manuscript."

"Did you do what he asked you to?"

"I did."

"Did he visit your room?"

"Yes, twice."

"How long did he remain?"

"Until a late hour."

"When did you see him next?"

"The next morning."

"What happened when he came into your room?"

"He kissed me several times and ———."

Here Attorney Clancy shot his next question quickly:

"Was he in your room the next morning?"

"I went shopping," replied Miss Lusk.

"What time did he come to your room that day?"

"About three o'clock. There were many protestations of his love."

Miss Lusk then testified that she paid her own bills and that when Dr. Roberts offered her money she refused it.

Altho she appeared smiling and confident at the opening of the questioning she perceptibly tired as it dragged on. Her voice became flat and monotonous.

Women wept as she told the sordid tale.

And then Grace Lusk went on and told of the numerous visits Dr. Roberts made to the Y. W. C. A. to see her and of rides they took together. She said he supplied the conveyances and made all the arrangements.

"What was the conversation?" asked Attorney Clancy.

"He talked of his affections for me and the lack of affection of his wife and the lack of martial relations."

"What did he say to you?"

"He said I was the character of a woman he cared for. He said he loved me. He told me I was the only woman he cared for.

"How did he tell you?"

"He told me I was the only woman in the world he loved and that he loved me and me only."

She said he told her this, "many, many times," in different ways. Trips in the country, she said, lasted from one to three hours.

Next Attorney Clancy led the weary witness to the trip to Chicago and the stop at the Grand Pacific hotel.

She said she preceded him by half an hour to the hotel.

"How long did he stay?" asked Clancy.

"Most of the afternoon," she replied.

Then more dinners, theatre parties, and a trip to St. Paul were brought out. She said Dr. Roberts bought the tickets and got off at Milwaukee. On her way back she stopped at Chicago, she said, and the doctor came to meet her.

"Yes, I saw him in my room," she said.

"I don't remember how long he stayed. Dr. Roberts stayed in Chicago all night."

She said he came to her room that evening and stayed all night.

"Did you return to Milwaukee together?" she was asked.

"I don't remember but I think he accompanied me."

And then she created a new sensation when she declared that Dr. Roberts had paid her fare on trips to Chicago. This had been denied by Dr. Roberts when he was on the stand.

There followed more testimony of automobile rides, trips, and a present of a wrist watch which she said Dr. Roberts gave her.

Miss Lusk said she also received letters in Chicago from the doctor and told of his trips to the west. One trip, she said, was when he was called away by the death of his mother.

"He called me upon the telephone and said he wanted to see me. When I saw him he took me in his arms and said he couldn't stand it being away and that he would never leave me again."

At this point Dr. Roberts was affected. Tears rolled down his cheeks.

"How many times in 1916 did Dr. Roberts pay your fare to Chicago?"

"Twice," replied Miss Lusk.

She said she went either to the Grand Pacific or to the Sherman House and registered in her own name.

"Did he come to your room?"

"Yes."

"How long did he stay?"

"All night."

Court adjourned for the noon luncheon when she began to tell of a trip to Peoria.

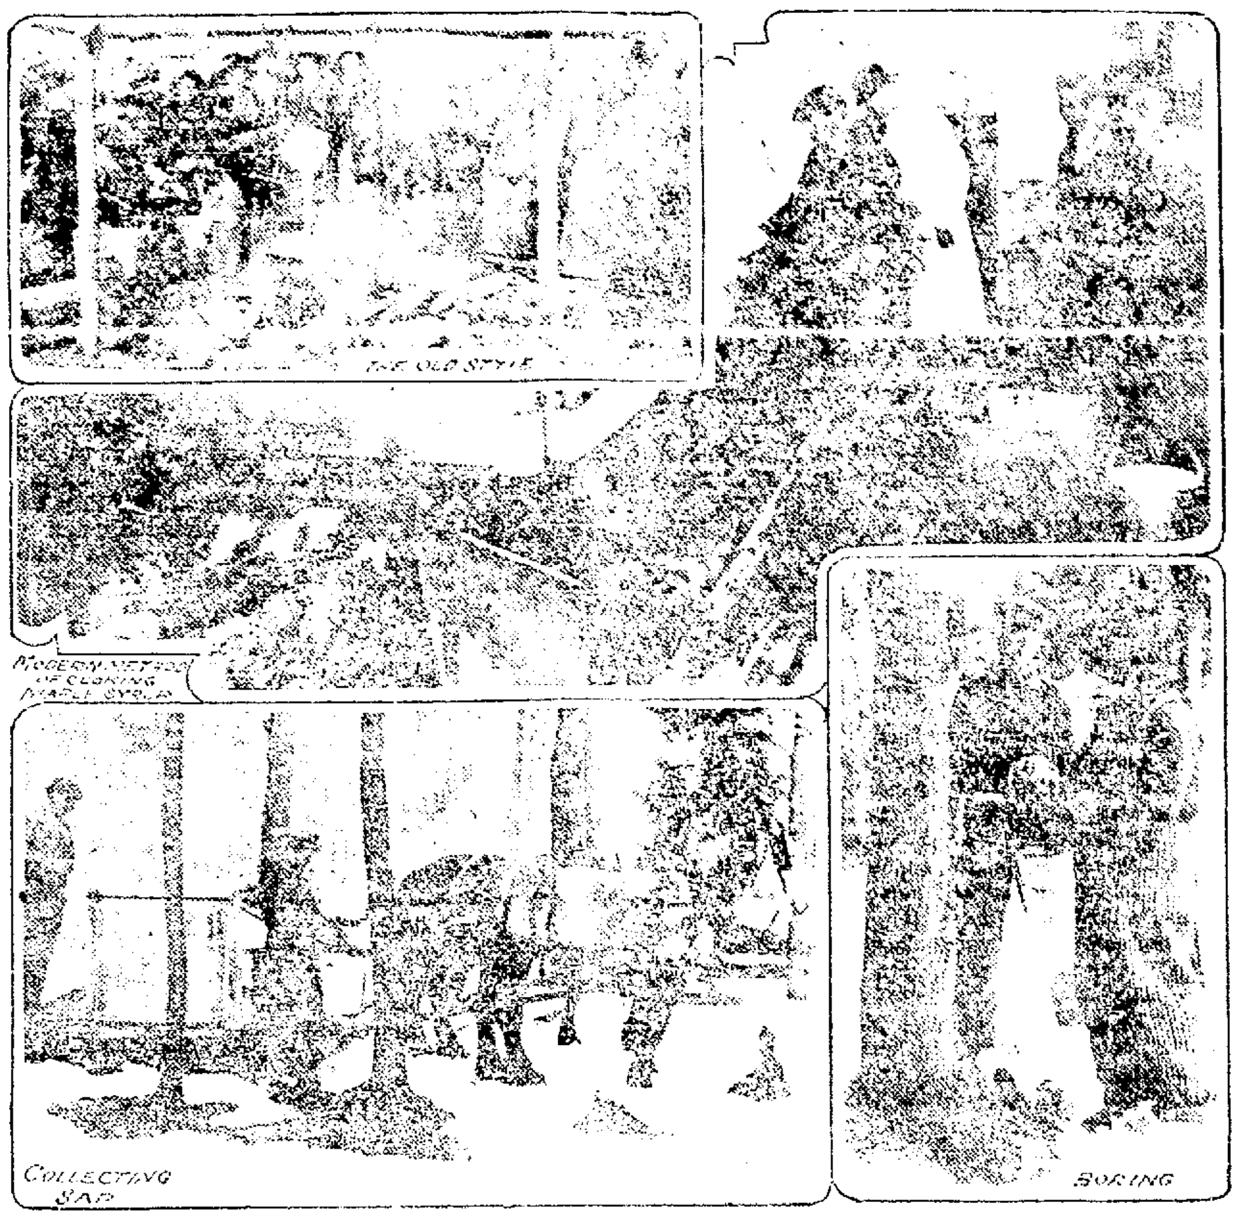
ENJOY FUN OF "SUGARING OFF" IN MAPLE WOODS OF CANADA



Lovers of well-sweetened coffee who suffered curtailment of their usual quota during the recent sugar shortage, are casting about for substitutes against the coming of another sweetless period. A more extensive use of maple sugar is suggested. This suggestion emanates no doubt from sources unacquainted with the limited output of maple sugar, the amount of labor connected with its manufacture and the resultant high cost. Cheap maple sugar or syrup means adulteration.

From four to six gallons of sap are required to make one pound of sugar. Three gallons of sap is the average daily yield per tree, or one pound of sugar in two days. The average sugar yield of a maple is four pounds per year. This requires seven days' work of collecting the sap and many hours of careful cooking before it is ready to be marketed. The result is maple sugar at 27 cents per pound in the shops of the maple districts.

The bulk of maple sugar and syrup that finds its way onto our tables today is prepared in prosaic, hygenic factories. The sap is poured into great pans having corrugated bottoms, partitioned off to give a zig-zag course to the sap. These pans are designed with a view to rapid evaporation and economy of fuel.

Canada is the stronghold of the maple sugar industry. It is estimated that 55,000 growers engage in this production and the annual output is placed at two million dollars. During the past two months maple woods along the Canadian Pacific Railway in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have been filled with sap gatherers. Guests at the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec count it a jolly good treat to visit one of the many maple farms in that section. A thrilling sleigh-ride to Chateau Richer, said to be the best maple farm thereabouts, lands one into the heart of rural Quebec where work is still done in primitive fashion. Here one may watch the syrup boiling in huge kettles over an outdoor fire; sniff the tantalizing aroma; have sips of the delicious heavy, smooth sugarless made by spreading syrup on pans of snow or dipping snowballs into the syrup; and, for a souvenir, carry away cakes of the "real stuff."

A BRIGHT SPOT IN THE DAY'S NEWS

He was only a small boy, trudging along the muddy road. But he offered a suggestion that made a man, old enough to be his father, pause and think.

"Going far, sonny?" asked C. H. Voegele, chairman of the organization committee in charge of the Richland county war chest campaign.

"About a mile," replied the 12 year-old lad.

Opening the door of his auto, Voegele helped the youngster on to the seat. The war chest campaign was the topic of conversation. After telling why he thot everyone should give some thing to help the soldiers the boy wound up by saying:

"They ought to put the names of those who don't give to the war chest in the papers. That'd make 'em give."

It is the aim to make every member personally conscious every week of needs of Coshocton mothers and how the Circle aims to meet these needs.

"Particular attention is called to the Mothers' Class which is conducted by the Circle every Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the church. It is the desire to have at each session of this class a program which will be vital and of real help to the members."

The purpose of the new organization is further explained by one of the members:

"Our homes are justly considered the mainstay of the nations, and yet, until comparatively recently almost nothing was done to offer them help when with the children small, they needed it most. Great strides are now being made to atone for this neglect. Even the Federal government has organized a division of the Department of Labor for this sole purpose and urges child welfare work, especially now, as a war time necessity.

"The Bible school of the local Presbyterian church has endeavored for some time to help the mothers of little children with whom it has come in contact. The scope of this work has now been greatly broadened, and it is service to the community.

"While mothers of children under 12 connected with the Presbyterian church are starting this, they consider themselves only the nucleus of the [illegible]. The aim is to make it a positive patriotic larger work, which is absolutely undenominational. Any mother who wants to help or be helped in rearing our future citizens, need only give her name to a member of the executive committee or attend the Mothers' class which is an important phase of the Circle's work, to be assured of a friendly welcome."

AVIATRIX IS DELAYED AT BINGHAMTON

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., MAY 25.—Miss Catherine Stinson, aviatrix, will be unable to leave Binghamton before two o'clock this afternoon on her trip from Chicago to New York. Lack of gasoline compelled Miss Stinson to make a landing north of this city last evening and a high wind turned over her machine and resulted in a broken propeller as she brot it to a standstill on a high hill.

But Miss Stinson established a new American non-stop record by flying from Chicago to Binghamton, a distance of 782 miles, without landing. The aviatrix made an average speed of 78 miles hourly for the trip.

Miss Stinson who is carrying Chicago mail to New York is waiting in Binghamton for a new propeller which is enroute from Elmira. As soon as it arrived, Miss Stinson will continue her trip to New York.

GOVERNMENT IS AFTER SLACKER

WASHINGTON, MAY 21.—The government is about to make it hot for slackers and draft delinquents, Attorney General Gregory announced this afternoon. Men of conscription age are leaving the country to evade military service, it was said, and complete lists are being compiled from information now on hand. Instructions are being sent to all U. S. attorneys to return indictments against them. These indictments will be held over and prosecution of the evaders made when they attempt to return to this country. Non-registrants and delinquents must either return to the United States for military service or become permanent expatriates.

SAMMIES HAVE THE PEP THAT WORRIES HUNS

(By Bert Ford)

(International News Service)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE FRENCH BATTLE FRONT, MAY 2.—(Delayed)—It has been unusually quiet on the American sector of the Picardy battle front in all branches of fighting arms.

A boche aviator started over our lines during the night, drawing a brisk fire from numerous batteries. Bombing of villages in the rear of the American lines has been suspended.

"The huns seem uneasy, but I don't wonder the way our batteries have been showering them with steel confetti," said one American officer. It has been almost a continuous performances.

"We have got the boche buffaloed. We can't get a wink of sleep, but the only way is to keep at them all the time. Our gunners are not content unless they are banging away all the time. There are no union hours in their war program. My, but can't those lads shoot!"

Private Schooling, of Clark county, Wisconsin, was mortally wounded by German shrapnel. When taken to the hospital he thrilled the doctors and nurses by his courageous conduct. Just before he died he smiled feebly as he said:

"If I could only live to go over the top instead of being hit by shrapnel."

Those were his last words.

Another private's last words were: "Tell mother she will be taken care of with my insurance."

NEGRO LYNCHED FOR MURDER OF GEORGIA WOMAN

CORDELE, GA., MAY 2—Blazing with rage over the brutal murder of Mrs. A. L. Simmons, and mutilation of her body, a mob of 500 persons early today swept aside an expostulating sheriff and deputies, battered down the jail doors and rushed to the cell where Jim Cobb, a negro, was held on suspicion. Seizing the cowering negro and throwing him into a waiting automobile the mob started with machines, horses and buggies for the scene of the crime, eight miles away. Arriving at the place just at daylight, the negro was dragged to a tree and hanged. Hundreds of bullets pierced his body as it swung to and fro.

The crowd dispersed immediately and today quiet has been restored.

The body of Mrs. Simmons was found at her home late yesterday. She had been beaten to death with a club and punctured in many places with table forks which were found covered with blood near the door. A baby was tugging at the clothing of the dead woman when the remains were found.

THE KAISER'S CHOICE

The Prussian Junkers, not content with the reactionary policy of the Fatherland party which is responsible for the war, has formed an ultra-Junker league known by the charming name of "The Emperor's Lieges." According to the notion of these gentlemen of light and leading, the kaiser hasn't been belligerent enough, "schrecklich" enough and autocratic enough.

Their first step was to issue an appeal to Wilhelm, under the heading, "Emperor, hear thy people"—the Junkers, of course, being the people. They urged the kaiser not to yield to the public demand for democratizing and parliamentarizing the government. If he will only "kick to the devil" all those who try to interfere with his imperial and divine rights, they assure him, he will win a place in all true German hearts.

"Emperor, make thy choice," they conclude.

Well, Wilhelm has made his choice. And it is in line width their sage advice. It is seen in the refusal to grant manhood suffrage in Prussia, after the kaiser had promised that very thing. It leaves the reactionary land-holders, the industrial potentates and the army leaders in control, and the people in their old plight, without a voice, virtually without the ballot, with nothing to do but obey, fight, starve and die at the behest of their masters.

But that won't last forever. Inevitably a time will come when the emperor who made that choice, on top of all the other evil choices that have made this wicked war, will himself be "kicked to the devil." And the time is not far off.

SUGAR SUBSTITUTES

The pop, ginger ale or root beer that you drink this summer may taste as if it had sugar in it, as of yore; but it won't—not if the food administration and the department of agriculture have their way.

The former is discouraging the use of sugar for soft drinks, and the latter has set about to find substitutes. The department's bureau of chemistry now announces that it has worked out a system whereby the sugar content of the soft drinks can be cut to 50 per cent without interfering with the taste and quality of the beverages. Its success has been attested by "tasting juries," including women and children as well as bottlers and scientists.

Starch sugar, starch syrup, maltose syrup and honey are the chief substitutes used. The bureau will furnish the necesary formulas to any manufacturer who wants them.

The importance of this one phase of food conservation may be seen from the fact that it is expected to save 50,000 tons of sugar a year.

It may naturally occur to the reader to wonder how many more thousands of tons of sugar might be saved if our kitchens were made laboratories for experimentation in providing sugar substitutes in common articles of food and drink. There are various simple sweetening tricks whose possibilities the public has as yet hardly begun to realize—for example, the use of raisins, dates and other sweet fruits. Any doctor will say that fruit sugar is the most wholesome kind of sugar. And what about the quantities of sugar wasted in cooking beets and other sweet vegetables in the usual ways?

THE WARLIKE WEST

It was remarked in the Third Liberty Loan campaign that the federal reserve districts making the best showing were in the West and Middle West. Now comes Dr. Charles A. Eaton, a New York minister who has been serving as a volunteer preacher of patriotic religion to government shipyard workers, with a new tribute to our western population. After having spoken to the workmen in every important shipyard in the United States, and observed their achievements, he declares: "The fact is that the West Coast right now is far ahead of the East."

The Atlantic shipyards have naturally excelled in quantity production. But they have not excelled in spirit nor speed. "The West," says Dr. Eaton, "gave the first steel ship, the first wooden ship and the first concrete ship on the program of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. And one Seattle yard alone turned out the first five steel ships of the program."

It isn't merely the ship workers, either, that show the western spirit. Wherever he went, in any part of the country, Dr. Eaton couldn't help knowing every hour that he was "in America." Even on the plains of Wyoming he was always running into enthusiastic Liberty Loan rallies. And as regards the general attitude of the Pacific Slope:

"In motoring from Seattle to Aberdeen, Wash., along the Puget Sound, we remarked that over the entire 196 miles we hardly saw a hut, a lean-to or house that didn't show the Red Cross insignia, the Food Conservation card, and usually the star that tells of a member of the family in the uniform of his country."

"Abdul The Damned" - - - - - By WALT MASON

I stood by Abdul H[illegible] grave, [illegible] from the world war's storm, and [illegible] above his sleeping form. By all the races [illegible] when he was on his throne the world pronounced him doubly damned, and named him with a groan. Now [illegible] Abdul lies, in his eternal sleep, and greater criminals [illegible] looks pretty cheap. And Abdul had his points, methinks, some virtues him adorned; he was not like some royal ginks—hypocrisy he scorned. He did not blush to wade in sin, he wallowed in his shame; he did not say, with evil grin, that others were to blame. He did not pierce a country's breast with smokeless [illegible] or creese, and swear he always did his best to keep the world at peace. He did not, from his filthy den, watch babes and women shot, and harrow up the souls of men with talk of Me and Gott. The dripping sword, the burning brand, were busy 'neath his flag; but not a moment did he stand to spring the kultur gag. I stood by Abdul Hamid's grave, and said, "I must admit he didn't piously behave, and failed to make a hit; we should not judge him here below, he's reached a higher court; but, lined up with one king I know, he was a dead game sport."

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

DAILY LETTER.

NEW YORK, MAY 25.—"Knocking down" on New York street cars costs the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company alone one lovely million dollars a year, according to the company's lawyer who had a conducter yanked into court for pocketing ninety-nine out of a hundred fares. It was intimated in court that the total loss was five millions a year.

According to the company some conductors even hate to let the company have the lead nickels they acquire. One man arrested recently for the gentle art of "knocking down" had ten lead nickels. However, the conductors have not had their say and most New Yorkers believe that as a class New York conductors are just as honest—perhaps more so— than any other.

The daily loss on the B. R. T. is reported as more than $3,000 or 60,000 nickels. One conductor was arrested not long ago after he was watched stealing 113 fares in 110 minutes. Another took twenty two cash fares and then forgetting himself rung up one.

There is one spotter to every three cars and yet the company claims that the pilfering goes on. Only one conductorette thus far has been given the gate for pinching off a few stray nickels. She was not arrested. She was merely fired.

It is claimed that when the five o'clock rush is on the nickel swipers get in their best licks and it is almost impossible even for the spotters to get the exact dope on the number of fares rung up.

The subways and elevated roads have eliminated the "knocking down" curse. The passenger must buy his ticket from a ticket seller. The ticket seller is given so many tickets each day and each night he must account for them. If he makes any mistakes he must suffer the loss.

Where the very streets are temparamental; where faded shanties hold up their roofs proudly beside apartments de luxe; where a millionaire's wife and a schoolmarm and a bob haired artist lady share the same view of tiny Sheridan square, stands the Greenwich Village theatre.

Greenwich Village is the most press-agented spot in town. When the new theatre opened it was thot it would be the rendezvous for the bobbed hair, besmocked contingent, the cigarette smoking girls, the Elbert Hubbard tied men and those who go in for the cosmic urge.

But it is not so. No ineed. The new theatre attracts the limousine crowd, the languerous ladies who use lorgnettes and whose husbands are in trade. The serious little thinkers do not go to the theatre at all and those who do go are all in the Social Register.

Harry Kemp has gone back to the days of Shakespeare to fill his playhouse down in Greenwich Village. When his theatre was about to open for the week he didn't have enough money to pay for the mailing of his announcements. So he went from cafe to cafe and with a cowbell gathered the crowd and spoke to them of his plays to be acted during the week.

The "Over the Top" dress made its appearance in New York this week. It is a slip on affair without buttons or trimmings and is made of gingham. It is for the women war workers who want to save time and who want to release men for government service where they are employed in making ready made dresses. The women who wore the dress is a society woman and she appeared at afternoon teas at the Ritz, Waldorf, Majestic and other hotels. The entire dress cost $5 and those who wish a hat to match can make one for $1 extra. There are very few New York women incidentally who are not busily engaged in some sort of war work. Many husbands come home to dinnerless apartments but they realize it would be unpatriotic to complain. And besides it would not do any good.

BULGARS FEAR THE ROUMANIANS

GENEVA, MAY 24.—Bulgarian officials intimate that the fear of Rumania, in the event of an allied victory is preventing the Bulgarians from sending troops to the western front despite pressure from Berlin according to information received here today.

Bulgarian newspapers publish numerous interviews with notables who have recently returned from Rumania and all agree that, while Rumania has been crushed in a military sense the country is not submissive and that the arrogance of the Germans has sown seeds of hatred in all classes.

It had previously been reported that Bulgarian and Austrian troops had already reached the western front.

"BLOOD AND IRON"

A Combination That Makes for Better Health This Spring.

Every man and woman who would enjoy good health this Spring, and would have such life and strength as not to be a slacker, but equal to anything, must have an abundance of iron in the blood.

The new iron tonic, Peptiron, combines this valuable metal in medicinal form so that it is easily absorbed and readily assimilated.

Peptiron also includes pepsin, nux, celery, gentian and other tonics,—nerve helps, digestives and carminatives—a health-giving medicine in the form of chocolate-coated pills, convenient and pleasant to take. It has given entire satisfaction in the treatment of anemia or thin blood, paleness, neurasthenia, nerve debility, brain-fag. One or two Peptiron after each meal will quickly tell a story of marvellous results.

Peptiron is prepared by its originators, C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass., in one of the best-equipped laboratories in the world. Get it today.

SPRINGFIELD WINDS UP BIG CHEST DRIVE

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, O., MAY 25.—A fleet of eight aeroplanes circled Springfield Friday dropping "bombs" and literature on the city and aroused great enthusiasm in the war chest campaign. Crowds lined the streets to watch the flyers who were from the government aviation field at Dayton, and scrambled for the literature. One of the bills said:

"This is not a German bomb but it might be. Fill the war chest and help prevent this happening."

Songs were also dropped. Springfield went over the top in its war chest drive for $750,000. It is estimated over a million dollars will be subscribed.

Congressman S. D. Fess spoke at a noon meeting Friday.

YOUNGSTOWN TOO

YOUNGSTOWN, O., MAY 25.—Youngstown has gone "over the top," in its campaign for a war chest of $1,000,000 having raised $1,250,000 and prospects are good for doubling the original amount sought. Great enthusiasm is shown at the various plants in their efforts to make a one hundred per cent showing and the committee's report very few refusals to contribute.

REPLANTING CORN WITH BEANS

Notwithstanding the great effort made to secure sound seed corn this spring there will be a great many fields planted with defective seed, resulting in a partial stand. To replant such fields with corn, even tho the seed be sound, means a reduced yield. In many cases it may be better to replant with beans, using either the well known Navy bean or the soybean. At the Ohio Experiment Station Navy beans, planted on the fourth of last June, produced about 20 bushels per acre, which sold at eight dollars a bushel above the cost of hand picking. Corn would have had to yield a hundred bushels per acre, and to sell at a dollar and a half a bushel, to bring in as much money.

Soybeans have been grown by the Experiment Station for many years, and may be expected to yield about the same as Navy beans. The price has not been as high for the soybean as for the Navy bean, running at from five to seven dollars a bushel last year, but the crop is a very profitable one even at a much lower price than this. When the soybean is grown for stock feeding no hand picking is required.

Elsie Janis Sings And Dances For The Sammies

(International News Service)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, MAY 23.—(Delayed)—Elsie Janis, famous American actress, made her debut on the "battle front," Tuesday afternoon and faced her helmeted audience.

In a little village on the Toul front within easy range of Hindenburg's gunners, Miss Janis danced and sang and told stories finishing by doing a lively fox trot with four coatless doughboys after she had forced one to discharge a huge chew of tobacco.

"That's one thing I must draw the line at," she exclaimed.

One of Miss Janis stories was interrupted by fire from high angle guns against boche airplanes somewhere in the vicinity.

The stage was a squared ring at the top of a hill on which many soldier boxing bouts had taken place. The spotlight was 'old'. Miss Janis worked so hard to please her soldier audience that the perspiration streamed from her face and her cheeks were red as berries from her exertions.

At least a thousand doughboys were perched on red-tiled roofs of adjoining houses, and seated aloft in the branches of trees. They were jammed like subway rush hour travelers about the ringside and they surely did give Elsie one regular army welcome.

The program was opened with several stories and then the actress sang songs accompanied by a Y. M. C. A. man on a thing that once passed as a piano.

The doughboys joined in with her on one song about the "dirty Germans." In the middle of the song an aeroplane buzzed overhead, coming from the direction of the firing line.

Elsie stopped and looked skyward, anxiously exclaiming:

"What is it, boys, a German? I can't be killed this afternoon because I have to work tomorrow."

She was heartily reassured and finished the song. The star number was Elsie's overseas version of "Over There," entitled "Over Here."

She finished this up by doing a series of "cart wheels," about the ring despite restrictions imposed by the skirt of her blue traveling uniform. This elicited wild applause.

Last night she repeated the stunts for American aviators, spending the night at Toul with her mother. Miss Janis will give similar performances in villages behind the Toul front on Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Rippeth Is Hostess At Two Social Events

Beautiful were the appointments at the luncheons given Friday and Saturday, at the home of Mrs. A. S. Rippeth on North Sixth street, when she entertained in all about seventy-five guests. Festoons of yellow, lavender and white iris decorated the house. The seven small tables at which the luncheon was served were artistically arranged in the living room and reception hall. In the dining room a beautiful vase of old fashioned mixed flowers formed the center piece, and the chairs were covered with embroidered white linen covers.

The picture of a Coshocton woman, practically nude, was turned over to the police authorities Friday as evidence toward the arrest of Tom Stokas, shoe repairer and photographer, who conducts a shop on Walnut street. The plate of the picture was found by Mike Abood, owner of the Grand confectionery, in apartments owned by him and recently vacated by Stokas.

Altho it is thot that the picture was taken by Stokas, sufficient evidence to this effect could not be produced to warrant his arrest. Stokas claims that someone brought the plate to him to be developed and have some pictures made from it, but that when he saw what sort of a picture it was, he refused to do this

REV. D. C. BOYD IS PRAISED FOR HIS WORK AT SHERMAN

Rev. D. C. Boyd, of this city, military pastor at Camp Sherman, has been praised by the National Commission of the Presbytery for the manner in which he has had the club rooms in the First Presbyterian church at Chillicothe remodelled and furnished for the use of the boys at the camp.

Rev. Mr Boyd was given $1500 and told to get the rooms in order in two weeks. In 12 days the floors had been scraped and varnished, new lighting fixtures had been installed, and the rooms had been artistically furnished.

The rooms are equipped with writing desks, magazines and books are available, and various sorts of games are provided here with which the soldiers can entertain themselves.

An interesting program is being planned for the entertainment of the visiting societies.

The Confessions of a German Deserter

Written by a Prussian Officer Who Participated in the Ravaging and Pillaging of Belgium

Copyright by Detroit Free Press.

On the other side the French began to disarm such German soldiers as stood there with raised hands. Thousands of prisoners, innumerable horses and machine guns fell into the hands of the enemy. Several of our company were just about to retire with the electric apparatus when something developed which certain of our number had suspected. An error had been made and it was too late to rectify it.

The upper bridge, which had not been used to any great extent by the Germans, should have been left standing!

It had been the purpose of the staff in command to leave this bridge so that the enemy might continue its pursuit of our troops until a certain number of Frenchmen had crossed the river. The plan was to permit enough Frenchmen to pass so that they could be taken prisoner, yet, not too large a force, lest it might prove a menace to the German arms.

After these hostile troops had crossed, the plan was to destroy the bridge to prevent their being re-enforced. That was why the sergeant manning this switch had been kept waiting for the order to blow up the bridge. But the sergeant in the excitement and confusion thought that the cable to which his phone was connected had been disconnected and blew up the bridge on his own initiative while it was crowded by Frenchmen and long before the enemy could have had an opportunity to cut that cable.

At the same time the officer at the switch connected with the explosives under the second bridge received his orders. He afterwards said that the order he received was hard to make out and that he had lost his presence of mind and threw in the switch, thereby killing thousands on the bridge and leaving many other thousands to the mercy of the enemy.

Before there was time for more impressions our entire unit was ordered to Vitry to be assembled in front of the cathedral. With a sigh of relief we hurried away, for the French artillery began once more to send shells with much accuracy over the entire countryside. Wounded men from other detachments whom we passed on the road told us that the French had already crossed the Marne in several different places. Everyone among us voiced the same opinion. We had already sustained great losses on Belgian soil and each day brought new sacrifices. Our lines became thinner and thinner. Many companies were entirely destroyed and all units suffered heavily. These companies whose forces had been reduced to a minimum and with the survivors half starved were opposed by an army well equipped with supplies and arms. The enemy constantly brought up fresh troops while our forces became fewer from hour to hour. We realized that it was impossible to make a stand here. We were constantly learning from soldiers of other contingents that their losses in men and materials were enormous.

I thought of the God of the Germans. Had he forsaken them?

I thought it so loud that the others could hear.

"Yes," said another, "whom the Lord wishes to punish is first stricken with blindness. Probably he thought of Belgium, Donchery, Sommepy and Suippes, and still many other places and let us run into this perdition like flying fiends."

We reached Vitry. Here the misery seemed to be still greater than ever before, for in the entire town there was not a single house that was not overcrowded with wounded. In the midst of all this misery robbery flourished. All residences had been emptied of their furnishings and everything was thrown into the streets to make room for the wounded.

The sanitary squads went over the town and took everything of any value. The munition and railroad columns followed the same practice. They had plenty of room for plunder. This was amply proven by numerous seizures afterward of parcels put in the mail, which contained gold rings, watches, precious stones, etc. The business of the marauders flourished here in Vitry. The soldiers in the supply columns encountered very little actual danger; they had an easy time as compared with soldiers fighting at the front.

We soon reached the cathedral and reported to Lieutenant Elm. He also had defended his fatherland at a safe distance and here in the city, freshly shaved and in immaculate attire he looked very presentable.

The contrast was vivid as he stood before us who were torn, dirty and covered with blood, with unkempt hair, with beards grown and caked with mud and dirt.

We were obliged to wait so we sat down and looked around us. The church was full of wounded; many died under the hands of the doctors. They were carried out to make room for others. The dead were carried to one side, where whole rows of corpses lay. We counted more than sixty.

On our way to Vitry we had begged some bread, but we were still hungry and our field kitchens were nowhere in sight. The crews of our field kitchens as well as our forage officers and non-commissioned officers prefer to defend their fatherland many kilometers behind the battle fronts. They did not care about us as long as they were not obliged to go within range of the artillery fire. Comradeship has its limitations with them.

Other field kitchens were near by. They had prepared more food than their companies needed. Many for whom they had cooked will never eat again. We were invited to come and get whatever we wanted.

We had scarcely finished eating when we had to march on. Presently we were joined by more members of our company. Our captain appeared. One of our officers reported to him the number missing. He stepped in front of the company and said cheerfully, "Good morning, men," although it was seven o'clock in the evening. A growl was the only response. We were then ordered to go to the wagons standing at the north side of the town, where each man was to supply himself with cartridges and three hand grenades. We gathered at the wagons at 9:30 o'clock and each man took 500 cartridges, his three grenades and matches to light them. On the way to the wagons we saw everywhere formations being hastily organized from stray soldiers and we received the impression of some great activity in preparation.

The rain had begun to fall in torrents. As we took our places we saw the streets filled with troops wearing special uniforms to protect them against the weather. These uniforms consisted of a suit of weatherproof clothing, a cap, such baggage as must be taken on a march, a tent cloth, tent sticks, dishes and, with the pioneers, trench tools. Thus equipped, we stood in the rain and waited, ignorant of what lay before us.

We were ordered to take the breech locks out of the guns and put them in our bread bags. The guns now were no good for shooting. We now began to understand what lay before us. A night attack was planned with bayonets and hand grenades, and the measures which had been taken were taken so that we would not shoot at one another in the darkness.

We stood and waited until eleven o'clock, when the order suddenly came to go into quarters. We did not know what to make of this after all the preparations. We could tell from the drum fire and the red glare in the sky that the battle had not lessened in violence. The sky glowed, illumined by the burning villages and farms.

On the way to our quarters we heard the officers saying among themselves that a final trial had been intended to defeat the French. This had been the reason behind the preparations for the night attack which had now been called off.

Headquarters apparently had decided otherwise. Perhaps it was known there that nothing could be accomplished by attacking and the order was given to begin the retreat which was put into effect the next morning at six o'clock. We did not realize then that this was to be our last night in Vitry.

We were sheltered in a shed for the night. As we were very tired, we soon were fast asleep. We were aroused at four o'clock in the morning, everyone was given a loaf of bread and ordered to fill his canteen with water, after which the march began. Although we were ignorant of our destination, the inhabitants of Vitry seemed to understand where we were going and they stood on the streets throwing us significant glances.

Everywhere the feverish movement was on. We stopped in front of the town hall. Here the captain told us that because of difficulty in the terrain our troops had to vacate their positions and retire to nearby heights and occupy new defenses. With that he turned around and pointed to a ridge on the horizon.

"There we shall make a stand and wait for the enemy," he said. "No re-enforcements will arrive today and in a few days we may send picture postal cards to your homes from Paris."

CHAPTER IX.

I must confess that most of us believed in this at the time, that we would soon be in Paris. Other bodies of troops arrived from all sides. We had marched several hours when news came to us that Vitry had been retaken by the French and that they had seized a tremendous amount of military stores, captured the hospitals, together with their medical units and patients, and that the sanitary companies also had been made prisoners. At about two o'clock in the afternoon we arrived at the heights which had been pointed out to us early in the march by our captain.

Field Kitchens Were Near By.

We now began to understand that something had gone wrong. Streets were filled with troops from all branches of service, trying to use the road along which we were marching. Being outnumbered, we were crowded backward. Empty munition columns raced by us in no order whatever. They were followed by canteen and other supply wagons. The greatest confusion reigned everywhere. Every minute added to the congestion until finally there was a dead halt. The drivers of some wagons left the road and tried to pass around the congested portions by traversing the fields, which had been soaked by heavy rains. Several wagons turned over and others became imbedded in the mud. The horses were unhitched from those and the wagons left behind. The wagoners mounted these horses and drove on, forgetting everything in one wild panic stricken race for safety.

An officer rode up and handed an order to our captain. We were halted at a field close to the road. There we were permitted to stack our guns and rest. As we lay at this point we watched the passing columns, field kitchens, munition trains, sanitary columns and field postal wagons racing by in a grand carnival of confusion.

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

THERE'S a lot of geography in the wear of tires. Some wear well in one region, and wear out in another. Climate, peculiar roads and road conditions are the cause of it. Therefore, good service in a single region is not enough proof of tires that must undergo nationwide use. Least of all could it measure tires up to the TESTED standard, Goodrich demands of tires.

With a command to find out what Goodrich Tires do on the roads of every section of our country, and what the roads of every section do to Goodrich Tires, Goodrich sent its famous Six Fleets of over forty cars, light and heavy, the length and breath of our nation to an aggregate mileage of 1,044,686 linear miles, and 4,178,744 tire miles.

The Pacific Fleet contributed 166,960 miles on desert paths and coast highways; the Mountain Fleet 55,796 through the Rocky Mountains; The Dixie Fleet 3,285,860 in the South and North Midland; the Prairie Fleet 198,744 on the Great Plains; The Lake Fleet 217,372; and The Atlantic Fleet 254,012 on a grand tour of many tours ranging from Virginia, through New England, and back to the City of Goodrich.

Throughout this road roughing, SILVERTOWN CORDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS, proved themselves the tires of durability and dependability wherever you go in our broad land. They verified all the good qualities of Goodrich Tires, and revealed many new virtues.

Get the economy, the comfort and certainty of such proven service by demanding the tires proved out in 4,178,744 miles over American roads—"America's Tested Tires."

The youngster's reply was: "Yep, we have all kinds, alive, dead, dressed and undressed."

MILLIONAIRE WILLS IT ALL TO CHARITY

CLEVELAND, O., MAY 25. The will of Orville L. Jones, just probated left practically all of his fortune of $1,000,000 for the benefit of Cleveland poor children and hospitals.

Mr. Jones died here last Thursday at Charity hospital. For a number of years he has been separated from his wife who is living in California.

In the will just probated Mrs. Jones is cut off with her dower interest in about $24,000 worth of personal property. It is said, however, that a separation agreement reached several years ago provided that she be given $200 a month as long as she lives and that the two children, a son and a daughter be given the same sum as long as Mrs. Jones lives, after which the are to get $250 a month.

Did John Say It?

Some one asked John D. Rockefeller why he was so seldom seen at public dinners. "Well," replied the millionaire, "in the first place I don't eat much, and while you don't have to eat you do have to sit through the speeches. And, to my mind, the average after-dinner speech is like a bicycle wheel—the longer the spoke the greater the tire."

REVENUE BILL TODAY HANGS IN BALANCE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, MAY 25. The final decision as to whether congress should remain in session indefinitely and pass new revenue legislation rested today with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Mr. McAdoo was expected to inform administration leaders of both houses whether the government's financial conditions would permit postponement of the passage of a new revenue bill next session. He was constituted a "court of last appeals" by President Wilson last night after leaders urged him not to compel congress to remain on the job to enact new taxes.

GERMANS GAIN GREAT VICTORY; BOMB HOSPITAL

LONDON, MAY 25.—The hun air raid over Red Cross hospitals behind the British front in France on Sunday night was more horrible than the sinking of the Lusitania and hospital ships, writes a well-known British correspondent. The casualties among the nurses and the helpless patients were greater than in any air raid over London. The heroic nurses remained with the wounded and among the dead. There were two separate raiding parties and more than a score of machines took part.

for Germany to fix the time."

As an inducement the Germans were told of the advantages for submarine and Zeppelin bases on the west Irish coast and October was suggested as the best time for the revolt.

America's entry in the war, added the official statement, temporarily broke up communication between the Irish in Ireland and their sympathizers in the United States, but there is no reason to believe the messenger service devised by Devoy between Ireland and America was affected.

In support of the charges the official statement cited the following extracts from speeches of Prof. DeValera one of the Sinn Fein leaders recently arrested:

"Already there has been too much bloodshed without success. We cannot hope for success in the future except thru a German invasion of England and landing of troops and munitions in Ireland."

In January of this year Prof. De-Valera said:

'As long as Germany is the enemy of England and England is the enemy of Ireland, Ireland will be the friend of Germany."

For a long time, went on the official statement, it was difficult to secure accurate information. In April it was ascertained that the time was ripe for the landing of arms in Ireland. The Germans were awaiting information from Ireland as to the date and place. The British were able to warn the Irish commander of the probable landing.

A German agent was landed from a German submarine on April 12th and was arrested.

The rising depended largely upon the landing of munitions from a submarine and German munitions had actually been shipped from Cuxhaven at the beginning of May

"The revolution army movement in Ireland culminating in the arrest of a considerable number of persons last week consisted of two closely related series of activities," said the official report

Attempts by Germany to foment rebellion in Ireland

Preparations made in Ireland to carry these principles into action.

The events relating to the first were detailed, but those relating to the second were not because such an action would have disclosed the names of the persons who stood by the government.

The Rev. Father Nicholson fulfilled Roger Casement's wish that the American priest corrupt Irish prisoners in Germany, it was declared. He helped to conspire the Easter rebellion, Bernstorff fixing the date it was said.

Von Jagow (former German foreign secretary) arranged to land arms at Tralee Bay. Bernstorff asked for a simultaneous air raid over England and a naval attack against the English coast. The German plotters hoped to blockade Irish ports and establish submarine bases in Ireland.

Attacks were actually made by the Germans between April 22nd and April 26, 1916, but the other German plots mis-carried.

Mary Alice Samson, 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Samson, of Orange street, died at the City hospital early Saturday morning following an operation for acute appendicitis. The child was stricken Monday, and Friday her condition became so serious that she was taken to the hospital for an operation, but all efforts to save the life were unavailing.

Mary Alice Samson was the youngest of the family. She leaves, besides the parents, a married sister living in Tyndall, and two brothers, and one sister, of the home.

"GOOD NAME" OF SALOONS

Funny Demand Made by Columbus Brewery Workers.

Columbus, O.—Can it be possible there is humor among brewery workers? The brewery workers of this city have appealed to the state and county liquor licensing boards to abolish cabarets, because the brewery workers claim these cabarets are hurting the "good name of the saloon."

When the request was made, license officials gasped as it was news to them that the saloon had a "good name" to be hurt, but the brewery workers declare they are in earnest. They contend that cabarets are causing a prejudice against saloons and are driving Ohio dry, and after Ohio becomes dry what will the brewery workers do. These brewery workers are so afraid of cabarets that they declare if they are not abolished the brewery workers may refuse to deliver beer to places which tolerate them.

Now that the cabarets know what the brewery workers think of them, it is up to cabaret performers to express themselves on brewery workers.

KEEP OUT OF SALOONS!

No Place For Boys In Uniform, Says Uncle Sam.

Chillicothe, O.—A military order at Camp Sherman prohibits soldiers in uniform from entering the saloons of Chillicothe. Before this order went into effect, the soldiers could enter the saloons, but were prohibited from drinking. In many of these saloons meals are served, and the boys would eat in these places.

But there has been more or less liquor sold to the boys, as is natural, and so the order was given that the boys must keep out of the saloons. This order applies to officers as well as privates.

Liquor interests do not like the order, claiming saloons furnish meals at less cost than they can be procured elsewhere and that the order will work hardship. But this city will see that food can be procured for as little money outside of saloons as within them, and the order is meeting with public approval

LIQUOR RAIDS AT AKRON

City Full of Speakeasies as Well as Licensed Saloons.

Akron, O.—This city is full of licensed saloons. This means, according to wet claims, that there are no speakeasies here. However, the other Sunday, inspectors of the state liquor licensing board raided 26 Akron speakeasies and alleged clubs, made 42 arrests, and confiscated so much liquor they could not cart it away in a big truck.

In many of the places raided women as well as men were found drinking, and bartenders were so busy they hardly had time to be placed under arrest. The name of one of the so-called clubs was the "Lost Order of Groundhogs," a most appropriate name for a speakeasy.

The question now is what about the pet wet argument that a license law kills off speakeasies?

OHIO BREWERS AT OLD TRICKS

Will Try to Confuse Issue This Year.

THEIR PLAN WITHOUT EFFECT

Advocate a Proposal to Have State Vote on National Prohibition When Federal Constitution Provides That the Action of the Legislature Is the Only Way In Which an Amendment to That Instrument Can Be Ratified.

Columbus, O.—The opinion is quite general here in Columbus, as well as in other parts of the state, that Ohio brewers do not expect to do more than raise a dust with their proposal to initiate an amendment to the State Constitution providing that proposed amendments to the Federal Constitution be submitted to a vote of the people of the state. The movement is looked upon merely as an attempt to divert attention from this year's campaign for state-wide prohibition.

The Constitution of the United States provides the manner in which that document may be amended. In Article V of that instrument, it says: "Amendments to this Constitution * * * shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of this Constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states."

Neither the state law nor the state Constitution can change this method of procedure. There is no authority in the Constitution of the United States for submitting the ratification of an amendment to a vote of the people of any state. After the legislature ratifies an amendment, that is the end of it so far as that state is concerned. A referendum on that ratification would have no legal effect.

Attorneys who have given thought to the proposed amendment to be submitted by Ohio wets, declare that such an effort to overrule the method provided in the Federal Constitution itself for ratifying amendments to that instrument, is a futile proposition. Evidently, the only purpose sought by the Ohio Home Rule Association is to confuse the issues that are now clearly outlined and secure, if possible, unnecessary delay in settling the question which has been referred to the legislature for final settlement.

Mr. J. A. White, Superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, sums up the situation in a nutshell when he says, "The liquor interests always oppose a referendum in any unit of government in the United States on the liquor question where such a referendum is legal and binding. Where it is illegal and of no effect, they always ask for it."

The drys of Ohio assert they are not afraid of a referendum on the wet and dry question, where such referendum is legal, but that the state cannot prescribe a different method for amending the Constitution than that which is found in the Federal Constitution itself.

Attention is also called by the dry organization of Ohio to the fact that the Ohio Home Rule Association, which now seems so zealous in behalf of an illegal referendum, is the same organization which proposed the Home Rule amendment to the Ohio Constitution in 1914, under which the county local option law was repealed and the voters of the country denied the right to express themselves on the wet and dry question. The Home Rule Association is also the same organization which in 1915 attempted to destroy the Initiative and Referendum through the so-called Stability League amendment which the people of the state defeated in the fall of that year.

SALOONKEEPERS FACE TROUBLE

Will Probably Be Charged With Trying to Cheat Uncle Sam.

Columbus, Ohio.—A thousand or more Ohio saloonkeepers may fail to have their licenses renewed this spring. This is because they will probably be charged with trying to cheat Uncle Sam by not listing for the war tax the whisky in their possession as required by law.

The State Licensing Board considers the violation not merely an evasion of the law, but unpatriotic as well. Saloonkeepers will have to file applications next month and these applications will be passed upon in May. There are 6,000 saloonkeepers in Ohio and if the claim is correct that 1000 of them attempted to cheat Uncle Sam, the drys assert it will prove their contention that there is a lack of patriotism on the part of the liquor traffic.

TWO OF PERSHING'S WOUNDED MEN TO COME HERE FOR WAR CHEST

A telegram was received at War Chest headquarters Saturday from Col. R. E. Perry, chairman of the Ohio State Council of Defense, stating that two of Pershing's wounded soldiers, have been assigned to Coshocton county for May 28th and 29th. They are Corporal Clarence Morris and Corporal Thomas Cosgrove, both of whom have been in the thick of the fighting on the western front.

The securing of these men is in the nature of a triumph for the local committee as there is a great demand for these returned soldiers and the government has only a small available list for this work.

CANADIANS TO SPEAK AT COURT SQUARE TONIGHT

Brimming with thrilling experiences on European battlefields, the wounded Canadian soldiers, who are to be Coshocton county's guests all next week, arrived in the city Saturday afternoon and were escorted down Main street by War Chest workers and the drum corps to the stand in front of the courtsquare, where they were welcomed to the city by C. B. McCoy, president of the Board of Control. Mayor Richardson and other prominent citizens were seated on the platform.

This evening at 7:30 the Canadian soldiers will again appear at a public meeting in front of the courtsquare. One after another the soldiers will address the Saturday night throng on Main street from 7:30 to 9:30. O.S.U. UNFURLS SERVICE FLAG OF 3,000 STARS

A gigantic service flag containing 3000 stars was unfurled in Columbus Saturday during the State University alumni exercises. The stars represent the boys who have attended O. S. U. and are now with the colors. Many of the stars represent boys from Coshocton county who have at some time been enrolled in the university.

In a message read at the unfurling which Senator Pomerene sent yesterday, he says: "Every star upon it represents an American patriot and every man in the service is a star who will add glory and luster to our history."
